USELESS INSOMNIA

There have been occasions when my just obligations, otherwise known as debts, have caused me sleepless moments. Having entered into a covenant to repay what I had borrowed I labored under the belief that it was incumbent upon me, if I lived up to the concept of a good citizen to do so, or at least be polite enough to go to the banker or other creditor and make a fervent plea for an extension.

A BLUNDEER

So I have gone blundering along in that outmoded fashion for many years, foolishly believing in my ignorance that it was up to me to pay. Events however, indicate my ancient beliefs have been long ago cast into the discard. The fact was brought forcibly to mind by the speech of Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill, before parliament the other day in which he proudly reported that Great Britain's budget is balanced, that the empire is out of the red and into the black, and an economic balance is again in full swing.

CONVENIENT MEMORY

However, the astute gentleman while peddling this pleasing pabulum, sedulously refrained from mentioning a little matter of four billion dollars which Uncle Sam loaned to Johnny Bull way back in the days when a World War was in progress and at a time when such an accommodation meant the salvation of the Allied cause.

The sponsor of that wonderfully balanced British budget was also significantly silent regarding the many millions long overdue for interest. Even one of the Labor members was moved to ironically remark: "The American debt has gone into that very nice category where it no longer needs to be mentioned. That is a very satisfactory way of dealing with our external debts. I hope we will always be able to deal with them in the same efficient manner by letting them drop into the limbo of forgotten debts."

SECRET DISCLOSED

Now we have the secret of annoying debts—just let them fade into the limbo of forgotten things; in other words ignore them as though they never existed.

10 CANDIDATES SEEK ELECTION

Richmond voters at the primary election on April 29 will vote for ten candidates for the city council. Yesterday at five P. M. was the deadline for filing of nominating petitions, with no new candidates filing.

The ten candidates who will appear on the primary ballots are: Walter Johnson, incumbent; John A. Bell, Dr. A. B. Hinkley, incumbent; Joseph Perasso; Lud M. Johnson, Harry R. Burt; Alfred Lambert, Dan Noziglia; Thomas P. Devaney and Mrs. Claire Curry Schmidt.

Of the ten candidates, six will qualify at the primary election and will run off the election at the general election on May 13. Under the city charter, it makes no difference if a candidate receives a majority of all votes cast at the primary as the charter provides that the six receiving the highest number of votes will have their names on the general election ballots in the order of votes received.

There are 42 precincts in Richmond with 9,873 voters registered for the primary election and 9,914 registered for the general election. Walter Johnson and Dr. A. B. Hinkley are the incumbents seeking re-election. Russell J. Meyer whose term expires on July 1, is not a candidate for re-election.

Itinerant Hurt In Pinole Fall

Theophilus Clarquist, of San Francisco, an itinerant, was found lying on the railway right-of-way near the Pinole depot last evening, suffering from a fractured skull. The injured man was taken to the county hospital at Martinez by a Wilson and Kratzer ambulance.

Questioned at the hospital, Clarquist could not explain how he was injured, other than to say that he "fell down." Hospital attaches said he had been drinking.

His condition was not said to be serious.

MASONIC LODGE HAS BIRTHDAY

The oldest Masonic lodge of the city—McKinley lodge, celebrated its thirty-third year of service last evening at a meeting held at Masonic hall.

Founded in 1902 with Harry Elliott as the first master, the lodge has won for itself an enviable record in the annals of Masonry in the city.

At last night's meeting, Elliott told the large crowd of the founding of the lodge in 1902, its organization and its history. He also introduced several charter members who were present.

In the banquet room a huge birthday cake with 33 candles occupied a prominent spot on the banquet table. Elliott, who is known as the "Father of Masonry" in Richmond, blew out the candles with one breath.

Musical selections were presented by Keith Hoover and Perry Howe while the Elks' Glee Club presented a minstrel show for the approval of the crowd.

Leon Michel presided over the business meeting. Announcement was made that next Thursday night the first degree will be conferred on a candidate.

Members and officers plan to attend the meeting of the Officers' Association of the 30th Masonic District to be held April 23 at Masonic hall with Alpha lodge as hosts. Irving Magnus and Charles Adams, 33rd degree Masons, will be speakers.

J. W. Garsides and Emil A. Plehn had charge of the banquet that followed last night's meeting.

VIENNA, April 18 — Prince Ernst Von Starhemberg, vice chancellor of Austria and head of the Fascist Heimwehr, left for Rome today by airplane. Assemblyman Ire Aroused By Protests On Red Bill

SACRAMENTO, April 18 — UP — Shortly after 10 o'clock, Assemblyman Frank G. McFarland today dispatched a letter to Dr. Robert Gordon Spaul, president of the University of California.

Martin inquired whether the attitude of the professors were representative of the university and whether the university administration planned any rebuke to the professors.

"Are you aware," the telegram read, "that 18 University of California professors sent a wire to the Assembly Judicial committee yesterday protesting this bill as a 'dangerous invasion of intellectual liberty and entirely unnecessary and un-American? Do these protesting professors reflect the attitude of the administration of the University of California?'"

"Is it a 'dangerous invasion of intellectual liberty' to penalize advocates of violent revolution? Should money of taxpayers be paid in salaries to professors who protest against an honest attempt legally to curb violent red radicalism in California? Will the action of these 18 professors go unheeded by the university administration?"

Martin declared recent acts of violence, which included the burning and tearing down of American flags and demonstrations in Sacramento, Los Angeles, San Francisco and the San Joaquin valley "demonstrated the need for more stringent laws to curb the growing activities against the American Government."

Major W. J. Woolridge of Sacramento, representing the Disabled American War Veterans, told the committee if there existed any doubt of the need of laws to curb radicalism, the receipt of the telegram from the professors dispelled it.

VOTE GRANT BY PEOPLE NECESSARY

District Attorney Francis P. Healey last evening, when action of the legislature on the pari-mutuel dog betting bill became public, made the following statement:

"I announced some time ago that I was going to close the El Cerrito Kennel Club. Since then I have caused an investigation to be made and the law governing such matters thoroughly examined. However the legislature has taken the matter out of my hands by putting the stamp of legality on such betting, under certain conditions, and therefore the question of the legality of the operation of the El Cerrito track and betting there no longer exists.

"If the measure passes in its amended form it will be the duty of the people of the county, and not my office, to say whether they desire the dog track to operate."

Human Flight Is Made In Russia

MOSCOW, April 18 — UP — Gen. Schmidt, parachute expert, today made the first successful "human flight" with artificial wings in the Soviet Union.

He leaped from the wing of a plane over central airport at an altitude of about 4,500 feet and glided, circling at less than 2,000 feet before he opened his parachute and descended safely.

His "wings" were made of a light cloth with fanlike aluminum tips, enabling the birdman to control his movements in the air. Schmidt estimated his horizontal speed reached about 60 feet a second.

Speaking of Sports

BERKELEY, April 18.—California track fans today looked forward to Saturday's California-Stanford track meet, 42nd in the long record of "Big Meets" as the possible beginning of a new cycle in near-Indian under competition.

Saturday's meet is the first since 1926, when Stanford won 69 to 62 in which the rivals have been figured on a parity in pre-meet dope. Indian victories since that time have been lopsided.

California-Stanford track competition has been divided, since 1922 into five major, well-defined, vicarious cycles. The first extended from 1922 to 1926, when California won every meet but one, and that one resulted in a 56 to 56 tie in 1926. Stanford won the series in 1927 and 1928, but the Golden Bears resumed their winning ways in 1929, and from then until 1932, the rivals competed on equal terms, victory going first to one, then the other.

The honors switched to Stanford in 1933, and the Indians won seven straight meets until 1936, when California entered a four-year reign of national supremacy in track and field which was threatened in 1937 by the Tamons 65 1/2 to 63 1/2 tie in the "Big Meet."

Stanford began the present and longest winning cycle of the rivalry in 1937. Since then the Indians have won eleven straight meets, their great team of 1931 getting the record score of 191 2-5 to 25 1-3. Even so, the keen nature of the rivalry is indicated by the fact that all of the meet records save one—the mile run mark of 4:20.2 set in 1914—have been established in the last seven "Big Meets."

BEAR STAR IS OUT OF FIELD MEET SATURDAY

BERKELEY, April 18.—UP.—More points in the annual Stanford-California track meet Saturday were thrown wide open today with the announcement that Morris Pollock, even if he is in condition to run both events, will not enter the broad jump.

Pollock, who received a pulled muscle in the Michigan meet Saturday, had been counted a certain winner in the broad jump if he was in condition to enter the event.

Today Coach Brutus Hamilton said he would run no risk of seriously injuring Pollock by permitting him to jump, which would place much more strain on the injured muscle than the races.

Entries for the meet closed today, with 100 men in all declared eligible to compete. Starters are limited to five in each event, and in many events the full five will be used, making up the largest fields to compete on the Berkeley oval this year.

Most entries were submitted for the half mile and the high jump, with 13 competitors entered in each event. Dick Bruce, Clark Hickey and Bob Heaver lead the California entrants, while outstanding contenders for Stanford in the mile will be Warren Dixon, Chuck Nimmo and Marion March. Dixon and Nimmo will also run the mile.

In the high jump California has entered even jumpers against six for Stanford. Humbert Smith, Stanford, is a heavy favorite to win the event, with second and third place points a battle between Hugh Thompson, Paul Jacques and Eugene Reid of California and Lloyd Schween and Russell Johnson of Stanford.

In other events, athletes from both schools will line up much as in previous meets, with few last minute changes expected.

Tim Holmer, California 410 and 440 runner, has been nominated for the 220 yard dash in one of the major lineups, but is expected to start in the event only if Pollock is unable to run.

Al Blackman, Stanford 440 and relay ace, has also been entered in the 220, but it is not expected Coach Dick Tompkins will endorse his team's chances of winning the relay by entering Blackman in the shorter event.

NAZIS MAY DECLINE TO COOPERATE

dent Wednesday was revealed today.

He hinted that the result might lead Germany to decline to cooperate in a series of international agreements for security and peace, now under negotiation. The communication was made orally when Sir Eric visited the Foreign Ministry. (No formal note was delivered either to him or the Italian envoy, despite published reports abroad. The report was denied by the British and German authorities.)

IN CONFERENCE
Britain regards Germany's report to the League's condemnation as strictly informal.

Hitler meanwhile conferred with party and government leaders at Munich, preparing an answer to Geneva, to be delivered Saturday, on his 49th birthday, celebration of which will be a national holiday.

AWAIT REPLY
He announced Foreign Minister Baron Konstantin von Neurath and Joachim von Ribbentrop, his personal diplomatic envoy, and other leading figures in the Foreign Office to the impromptu party, to aid in formulating a characteristically vigorous reply.

The reply may be a proclamation in the name of the government. Contents of the declaration is known only to Hitler. It was assumed that the document would bear out von Buelow's remarks to the British and Italian ambassadors, emphasizing the difficulty of further German cooperation in pending European negotiations, because of the Geneva reproach.

The document also may stress the increasing difficulties attending German return to the League.

AGED WOMAN CONFESSES TO KILLING CHILD

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—UP—A "mercy slaying," in which 16-year-old Mrs. Lillie Cohn assertedly murdered her 11-year-old granddaughter, was confessed by the aged woman to a newspaper reporter and her physician today, a San Francisco News said in a copyright story.

Mrs. Cohn, according to the story, killed the child when she determined to end her own life. "I loved her so I couldn't leave her. She would have been so sick and unhappy," she purportedly related.

Murder charges were placed against Mrs. Cohn shortly after the body of the child was found sprawled on a bloodstained couch in the Cohn home. Physicians said she apparently had been strangled to death. A hemorrhage, apparently caused by an abnormal glandular condition the child suffered, was believed responsible for the blood present.

Mrs. Cohn was found lying in an adjoining room, suffering from poison, as a consequence now from effects of the poison, which scarred her mouth and throat.

"I can't remember what happened," Mrs. Cohn assertedly told the reporter. "It's all dark now. For months I had been brooding, afraid I was losing my mind. I couldn't sleep. Finally I decided I couldn't stand it any longer."

"Oh, doctor, give me something now to put an end to it all," she was quoted as asking her physician, Dr. Morris M. Kirksey.

The child, Margaret Hill, was adopted by Mrs. Cohn and her husband after her mother died 10 years ago.

"If she really did it she was insane at the time," Margaret's father, Roy Hill, said "when informed of the confession. "She loved the child more than she did her own life."

New Relief Discovered For Hardening of the Arteries, But Not Generally Available Yet

THERE is no form of misery so maddening as the kind that progresses very slowly, seeming sometimes to yield to treatment and show improvement, but that by degrees grows worse. In some cases, there isn't any pain, but just that disheartening extension of the trouble which is enough to destroy one's mental balance.

It is that way with the process known as hardening of the arteries. This is usually a trouble left for those past middle age, just when most of us should like to let up and have a good time for a while. There is now a bit of light beginning to shine for those who are faced with this condition, though one is almost afraid to mention it.

When Paul de Kruif talked about "New Feet for Old" in a magazine of last December, I thought it was rather brash to rouse hopes which we might not be able to satisfy. And even de Kruif himself said, "It would be more merciful, maybe, not to spread the news of this simple beautiful discovery to the hundreds of thousands who could be relieved of their misery—but won't be."

I agree with him that the one thing worse than having an incurable disease is to learn that relief has been discovered, but is too expensive to be available.

QUITE recently, who should appear before my own medical society, but this same distinguished Professor Louis Herrmann of whom Paul de Kruif writes. Dr. Herrmann is now Assistant Professor of Surgery at the College of Surgery, University of Cincinnati.

After hearing his own story of what he had done to restore life and good red blood to himself and sometimes even dying tissues, it cannot be doubted that relief for hardened and blocked arteries is at hand as soon as it can be put at the disposal of the many who need it.

Dr. Herrmann made his first discovery in Switzerland, not in the hospital where he was studying, but on the top of the Jungfrau, ten thousand feet nearer the earth, where the air grew rare and the atmospheric pressure much less. An old man acquaintance, who suffered from hardened arteries and terrible leg cramps at the earth level, could not walk up the mountain. If he went on the little cogwheel up to the mountain top, participate in the winter sports with agility. His feet and legs turned from gold and purple to warm and soft. The quick intuition of the research scientist had what de Kruif calls a blinding flash of light.

WHAT the tiny arteries whose walls were thickening and stiffening needed was a chance to expand and to let the blood through. Of course, all the folks with stumpy feet and legs couldn't go mountain touring to get a lighter air pressure, so the idea must be carried to them.

The next experiments were concerned with air-tight jars and vacuum pumps. That was the old idea of "cupping" by creating a vacuum with a cup in order to coax the blood to a throbbing muscle or an abscess.

But deadened tissue required something more. The blood must be brought to the affected area and then flushed away again. That meant a machine that created first a vacuum and then a pressure within a cabinet large enough to hold the affected limb. Work was begun with an ordinary bicycle pump worked by hand which became finally a marvelous electric machine which is modestly named "Passive Vascular Exercises."

The future of the idea is almost beyond conception. For the usual type of sclerosis, for blood clot, for frozen feet or hands, for the incipient gangrene of diabetes, there should be hope. We need, first of all, the philanthropy of good hard dollars to make the cure available.

PERFUMES ARE PLEASANT AID TO DAINTINESS

By JACQUELINE HUNT

PERFUMES, more than any other beauty aid, express refinement, emotion and personality. The subtle, haunting power of perfume enters into our daily lives and influences likes and dislikes more than we realize. Every normal person is pleased and attracted by a faint, agreeable odor.

The fragrance about your person can not come from an expensive bottle, alone, however. It is a blending of odors. Skin that is thoroughly, immaculately clean has a definite, delicate sweetness about it that is enhanced by the addition of a very small amount of good perfume.

You must be sure that your body is always scrupulously clean. Perspiration is continuous, even in cool weather when you think that precautions are unnecessary. Two baths a day, even though one of them is a speed bath, are a good rule. Use a rub of eau de Cologne or even talcum powder to hasten the evaporation of perspiration, and to keep your skin dainty. For under-arm areas use a deodorant.

Wash your hair frequently. Clean hair has a delightful fragrance about it. And do watch your health and diet to keep your breath sweet. Use a mouthwash daily for extra insurance. And never powder on top of old make-up. Stale make-up has a disagreeable odor about it.

In selecting your cosmetics, try to get those that are delicately scented so they will not conflict with your favorite perfume. Fortunately, the strong scents of former days are seldom used. Delicate floral odors and bouquets are the safest choice for all women, although you may find a perfume that is distinctive and that seems exactly right for you. There are so many seductive fragrances that you may select the one that suits your taste.

There are a few rules that you should observe, however. A strong pungent scent should never be used in the morning or for sports clothes. The scented toilet water that you use after your bath offers sufficient fragrance—for business, too. For an important luncheon engagement or afternoon bouquet or delicate single flower perfume is correct. For evening you can choose the spicier blends. Really heavy, Oriental perfumes are in bad taste except for evening, and then they are most suitable for extreme formal dress or fancy costumes.

Perfumes are best applied with atomizers, sprayed on the hair or applied directly to the skin. A speck on your fingertips, on the ears and on your neck. An elusive fragrance can also be acquired by placing sachets among your lingerie and accessories.

Capt. Anthony Eden, at 36, Wins Amazing Success As a Diplomat

MANY observers have called this the age of youth. Scanning the horizon just now, most of us will admit there is some truth in the statement if we consider the case of Capt. Anthony Eden, Britain's dazzling new diplomat. Only thirty-six, Eden now appears something of a genius at diplomacy as he exchanges toasts with Stalin, leads Poland's Pilsudski to the idea of a military security pact for eastern Europe, and generally plays a role as important as Sir John Simon, who is his nominal superior in rank. Young Eden may carve himself a place in history with this clever handling of nations traditionally suspicious of each other. "How does he do it?" asks the man-on-the-street. Well, he does it by being himself. Capt. Eden was born to the proverbial purple and his whole schooling was arranged with diplomacy in mind. He is the son of a baronet, went to Eton and Oxford, and never has posed as anything but a con-

Skirt Fullness Slowly Being Adopted, With Belled Effects in the Majority

SPRINGTIME EVENING WEAR

By IRENE VAIL

New York—The really essential thing to remember is that, no matter how it is accomplished, skirt fullness is agreed upon for occasions appropriate for such a silhouette.

Skirt fullness is with various interpretations. Paray's rored line, which gives an umbrella effect to the entire skirt, and Alix's belled silhouette draped toward the front both agree in general line. In coats, fullness is either belled from the slim waist or is full and swaggy, and there is important endorsement of low fullness in formal frocks, represented in the turned-under sectional harem hems from Mainbocher and in the tucked, slightly trailing peacock silhouettes from Molyneux.

Two conspicuous silhouette features this season are the skirt with front fullness and the repeated favor for full sleeves.

In connection with both these features is the use of shirring or smocking, both treatments being especially charming in sheer materials. It is a year in which sheers are tremendously important for evening, some stylists see a summer in which street clothes will be of the thinnest materials, whether cotton, silk or one of the many man-made fabrics at hand.

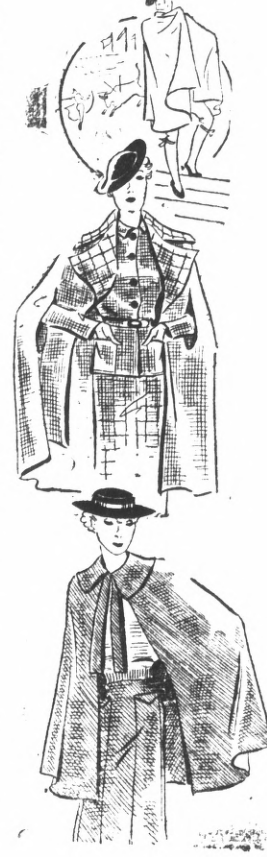

Sketched today, the seated figure wears an evening gown developed in taffeta, an unusual checked pattern is green and black that gives a changed expression to the fabric. The bow at the neckline at the front is a feature of this gown.

The ensemble combines taffeta and a dull crepe, the crisp fabric chosen for the big puffed sleeves of the jacket and also for the bow at the neckline that fastens with rhinestone ornaments. At right of the column are two types of capes, both inspired by the toreador influence. The top one is a three-piece in rough tweed with crossbar for collar on the cape and skirt. Below is a two-piece in pastel woolsens.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "Can I do anything to reduce the size of big, puffy-looking joints on my fingers and knuckles? My hands are also thin-skinned and red, even when they are not chapped."

How is your health? A rheumatic tendency might account for the enlarged joints, and feel that you would be wise to have a physical examination. Meanwhile, massaging is excellent for the hands and wrists. Apply cream and then massage upward from the fingertips to the wrist with much the same movements you use when trying on kid gloves for the first time. The cream will soften your hands while the massage will improve the circulation. Try also to exercise your hands several times a day by shaking them over your head and rotating them on your wrists. A good hand lotion might help reduce the redness.

QUESTION: "My mother used to use buttermilk for softening and bleaching her skin. Is this good? If so, can you tell me how it should be used?"—C. O.

Buttermilk is indeed good; the treatment is very simple. Cleanse your skin thoroughly with soap and water, rinse carefully and splash with very cold water or pat with a mild astringent. Now soak strips of cotton in buttermilk and press them over the face and neck. Lie down until the milk dries on your skin, then rinse off with tepid water and apply a very thin film of softening cream. Most of the cream can be wiped off and your cosmetics applied immediately if you wish.

Tasty and Nourishing Dishes for Today

Fruit Achieves More Variety When Used in Cooked Dishes

By JUDITH WILSON

FAMILIES would enjoy better appetites and have fewer colds during the winter and temperamental spring months if home-makers would only realize that fruit should be a regular food staple and included in some form or other in each menu.

Fortunately, nearly everyone enjoys the appearance and taste of fruit and needs no urging to eat a plentiful supply. Here are some of the good things that fruit does for you: contains vitamins and minerals that build up your resistance; supply mineral salts that insure sound teeth and bones; regulate the functions of the body; stimulate the appetite and aid digestion; and protect the body against acidosis.

Good as fruit is raw and juicy as it comes from the market, it also combines well with other foods when cooked. Here are some recipes:

Prune Salad
Wash, stew and pit twelve or more prunes. Fill the cavities with a package of cream cheese that has been mashed and mixed with one-fourth cup chopped nuts. Sprinkle two envelopes gelatin over a cup cold water. Add two cups boiling water, two-thirds cup sugar and one-half cup lemon juice. Turn into individual molds. When beginning to set, slip one of the stuffed prunes into the center of each mold. When set, unmold on crisp lettuce. Decorate with the stuffed prunes not used in the molds. Serve with lemon mayonnaise.

Fruit Compote
This makes a delectable dessert whether your meal is humble or elaborate. Use several kinds of canned fruits and fresh strawberries. For a simple home dessert place a small glass dish in the center of a large shallow dish. In the small dish put strawberry jam, whipped cream, cottage cheese beaten with a little cream until it is fluffy. Arrange the fruit attractively around the center dish—tins of canned pineapple or fresh pineapple sticks, the little whole peaches that come in cans, cherries, apricot halves and plums. Let each person serve himself to his favorite combination of fruits.

For a more formal meal, serve a wine custard sauce. To make it beat this mixture over water: one whole egg, three yolks, one-third cup Curacao and a teaspoon grated orange rind. Beat continuously until the mixture is very smooth and thick like whipped cream.

Sweet Potato-Apple
Put alternate layers of apples and sweet potatoes cut into cubes in a greased casserole. Sprinkle with brown sugar and cinnamon and dot with butter. Add a very little hot water. Bake in a moderate oven for one hour or until quite tender. Remove the cover during the last half hour of cooking. This is delicious with fresh pork, ham or roast veal.

Sprinkle with brown sugar and a speck of salt. Then add a layer of the crushed macaroons crumbs, repeating the process until all the ingredients are used. Dot with bits of butter and bake in a moderate oven until the apples are tender.

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "I have been told that it is not proper to use initials on a wedding invitation, even if the bridegroom is always known. Let us say, as 'Raymond T. Smith.' In my case, many of my friends do not know what the middle initial stands for. Does the full name have to be written out, as my fiancée says?"

ANSWER: To be faultlessly correct the full name should be given in an engraved form. This would also apply to the use of the name on a social visiting card, where the name would appear as "Mr. Raymond Torrence Smith." Using one initial in a three name signature is not in bad taste as when two initials are used, as "R. T. Smith." I am absolutely correct, however, as your fiancée suggests; allow the use of your full name on the wedding invitations.

QUESTION: "When company is expected, the husband or the wife?—Mrs. B. G."

ANSWER: The host, if he is not engaged, the hostess probably will be busy with some last minute detail. If neither happens to be engaged, a gentleman is supposed to defer to a lady.

You and Your Child

CHILD'S SENSE OF FAIR PLAY IS BUILT SLOWLY

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

IN A LETTER recently received, a mother asks me to "discuss fair play among children in their play, work and study." She is concerned in short with the fundamentals of character building. She wants her children to live right and to learn to do right by others.

The answer is in the environment. A child learns such things at home, not by rote but by example. All children experiment and make mistakes, but whether such mistakes will be repeated depends on who the parents are and their philosophy of life. A young child does not understand right and wrong, only fitness. He wants to be like us.

Unfortunately, many parents are unmindful of traits of greed, selfishness or dishonesty in their offspring until the youngsters begin to associate with other children. Or until they begin to attend school and reports of cheating, copying and in subordination are sent home. The impulsive parent will resort to whipping or scolding.

When a child gets into trouble at school, or if he takes advantage of a smaller or weaker child, or shirks responsibility at home, be fair. Don't hold him in contempt until through hating himself he hates you. That's the wrong way to go about it. Show rather than tell that you feel contempt for the deed. Make him feel that it is no done; that it won't be tolerated. But don't blame the child himself. And be sure that you yourself practice, as far as you are able in your business and personal dealings, what you preach for him.

A child begins to be trained from the minute of birth. I believe in reasoning with him long before he understands the meaning of words. There is something in the voice and manner of an explanation of truth and fairness that soothes and gives him hope.

Short Cuts

Did you know that vinegar may be used to soften paint brushes that have become hard and stiff? Allow the brushes to soak in a warm place, preferably behind the stove. Also paint spatulas may be removed from glass by using strong hot vinegar.

Stains in enamel pots and pans a solution composed of one tablespoon of washing soda and a quart of water.

After arranging fresh cut flowers, be sure to place the vase or bowl out of a draft, if you wish to make them last.

MODERN WOMEN

By MARIAN MAVS MARTIN

"The Perfect Guest" Is a Rare Bird Who Fits in With Almost Anybody's Household

MASTERING the difficult art of being a hostess is nothing really compared to mastering the still more difficult art of being a perfect guest. When one is asked to a big house, being a guest is a great help. The difficulties are minimized. It is of being a perfect guest in a small house old "that I wish for to sing."

The maidless housewife is not ideal for guests—because a guest worth her salt is compelled to suggest lending a helping hand. So if she is the sort who wants to be waited on and is a total loss in the kitchen, she had better decline with thanks any invitations she may receive from such friends who are either poor—or economizing.

Just the other day a wife of quite a well-known and heretofore prosperous lawyer told me that she was letting her maid, who had been with her for ten years, go. Everyone seemed to be doing without maids, so she saw no reason why she shouldn't. But that's beside the point, and another story, as Kipling says. Just in passing, however, I cannot refrain from voicing my disgust at such an attitude. I don't see just how one has the nerve to discharge a servant after ten years of loyal service just because "everyone is doing her own work."

BUT let's get back to the guest and her duties in a maidless household. Obviously, she must be considerate and not disturb the routine any more than possible. She should not take all of her hostess's time for entertaining, since the hostess has her chores to do. If the guest can manage to help her with them, so much the better, but it's well to remember that inexperienced cooks are not overfond of kitchen kibitzers. Onlookers are very distracting to most amateurs, so it is best just to make free of the kitchen, excepting at dishwashing time, or if you are entrusted to set the table.

It's distinctly up to a guest in a maidless household to keep her room in order. This includes making the bed. If there is a guest bathroom that is also the guest charge. Naturally, a guest is supposed to call in with any plan her hostess has made for her. If you are to be served with breakfast on a tray in bed—eat it and like it, even though you really detest the breakfast-in-bed habit. It is an artful dodge on the part of the clever hostess to keep you from under her feet until the best part of her work is done. If, on the other hand, you are accustomed to breakfasting in bed and are visiting in a household whose habit it is to assemble around the table, grin and bear it. A little chatter goes a long way at the breakfast hour.

IF THE household is a busy one it's just as well not to rub it in by sauntering down in luxurious pajamas. A guest should dress according to her background. Your hostess may suggest that you market with her, and unless you have the inevitable letters to write, as an excuse, there's no way out of it. It isn't so bad, either, when there's a car, and there usually is, if only a one-lunger. It's not up to you under such circumstances to make any purchases; your hostess has everything under control and will resent your buying the strawberries.

It's always a great comfort for a hostess to know when her guest expects to depart. Put her out of her misery on this score as quickly as possible, and if she is the family chauffeur, and will have to take you to your train, choose one that doesn't conflict with taking the children to school or bringing them home. Don't choose the husband's train on which to depart. Husbands have a strange preference for their morning paper.

It's the guests who slip into the domestic machinery and take things in their stride that are the guests we love to have again and again. The guests one has to entertain and "make company of" aren't invited for a return visit.

Have You a Question? Mrs. Martin will be glad to answer in this column questions of general interest. Mrs. Martin cannot reply individually to every correspondence. Names will not be published. Address her care of this paper.

SAYS HUEY HAS HALITOSIS OF THE INTELLECT

WASHINGTON, April 18.—UP—Senator Huey P. Long has "halitosis of the intellect," PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes said today, and backed up his attack on the "emperor of Louisiana" by withholding $615,000 allocated to the state for three construction projects.

"That is presuming Emperor Long has an intellect," Ickes added.

This was Ickes' answer to Long's threat to "blast his ears back" when he returns to the Senate Monday from Baton Rouge where he saw to it that Senate bills, designed to put Long's machine in charge of relief money, including federal loans and grants, were passed by the Louisiana legislature.

"About this blasting my ears back—will he do it with or without benefit of his bodyguards," Ickes asked mockingly.

"At the rate the 'Emperor of Louisiana' is going he soon will have a considerable share of the un-

Bruno Counsel In Word Battle

NEW YORK, April 18.—UP—With all the vigor of Huey Long or General Hugh Johnson, counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann today broke out in a bitter verbal battle which would make the most violent courtroom performance seem mild by comparison.

Edward J. Reilly, former chief counsel for the convicted murderer of the Lindbergh baby—recently ousted by Mrs. Hauptmann—accused his former associate, S. Lloyd Fischer of lying and "unethical conduct."

"The raving of a disgruntled and disappointed man," Fischer replied.

Reilly returned to serve with a request to the New Jersey state bar association that it prevent "a national scandal" by investigating the conduct of his successor.

"We are going to keep right on administering relief to the people in Louisiana who need it," he said. The new Louisiana administrator, Frank Poterman, will "continue to spend relief money him-elf and none of it will go through the administration," according to Hopkins.

The voters have given their favorable permission.

RESTRICTION FOUGHT

The dog racing board will provide that the racing board of three members to be appointed by the Governor may not issue a track permit until approval of the local voters has been given. Boards of Supervisors would be authorized to submit the question to the people.

The local option feature of the bill was forced into the measure over the opposition of Assemblyman Cliff Kallam of Watsonville, who will ask the Senate to strike that provision out.

MEETS LIMITED

The dog racing board will be given power to regulate, license and supervise greyhound racing in California. Dog tracks would not be permitted to employ the option system of betting.

Once the permission of the voters is granted, the racing board may issue track permits for not to exceed 100 days of dog racing in Los Angeles county and in San Francisco and territory within 20 miles of its county lines.

This would permit 100 days of racing in San Mateo and Contra Costa counties, where tracks have been in operation. In other counties of the State, race meetings from 14 to 25 days would be allowed. Dog races could be held either at night or in the day time.

PROFITS SPLIT

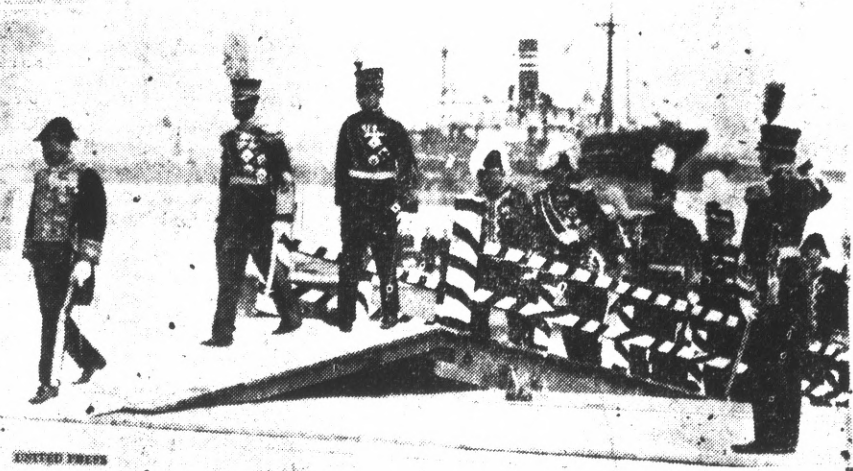

All stewards and judges under the bill would have to be residents of California for a period of two years prior to receiving their licenses.

From the pari-mutuel wagers 4 per cent would be deducted as the State share, to be placed in an old age pension fund. Track operators would be allowed 8 per cent of the wagers.

BILL CONDEMNED

Assemblyman Kallam, speaking for the greyhound breeders, who sponsored the bill, said the measure would bring considerable revenue to the State. An attack upon the measure was made by Assemblyman Gardner Johnson, Berkeley, who declared "dog races were patronized by persons who can not afford to bet and communities suffer as a result of this nefarious business." Assemblyman H. Dewey Anderson, Cupertino, presented the amendment granting local communities the right to decide whether racing would be permitted therein.

School Death Damage Suit To Be Tried Again

MARTINEZ, April 18.—Ruling that evidence was insufficient to sustain the verdict, Superior Judge Anthony Caminetti, Jr., today granted a new trial in the $15,395 death suit filed by Joseph Ogando of Crockett against the Carquinez summer school district for fatal injury of his daughter on grounds of the Crockett grammar school.

At the trial of the action on February 18, a jury returned a verdict in favor of the defendant by denying damages to the plaintiff. Attorneys A. F. Bray of Martinez and David Oliphant, Jr., of Oakland counsel for Ogando, gave notice of intention to move for a new trial.

Attorney James F. Hoey represented the school district at the trial, which was the second hearing of the action. At the first trial several months previous a jury was unable to agree.

Ogando claims that his daughter, Aileen, aged 10, died November 3, 1932, when she fell through the glass panel of a door at the school during a game of "hide and seek" and suffered loss of blood from severance of an artery.

Ogando charged that the school district was negligent in that instructors supervising the play allowed the children to use the door as "base" although they knew it constituted a hazard.

Leaders Named To Attend Camp

Two Richmond Boy Scout leaders were named at a special committee meeting held yesterday at the Scout headquarters, to accompany the 22 Richmond Boy Scouts to the national jamboree to be held in Washington, D. C., in August.

Harold Garrard, Scoutmaster of Troop No. 12, which is sponsored by the Wesley Methodist church, and Louis Hall, district commissioner for Troops 6, 12 and 13, were the two leaders selected to accompany the local boys to the big meeting.

Announcement will be made in the very near future of the names of the local boys who will make the trip.

LAVAL LAUDED BY FRENCH AS GENEVA HERO

PARIS, April 18.—UP—Foreign Minister Pierre Laval returned to Paris tonight in the role of a conquering hero, with the draft of a Franco-Russian mutual assistance treaty in his pocket, and the cheers of the populace in his ears for forcing Geneva to condemn German re-armament.

The draft of the pact with Russia will be submitted to the Cabinet tomorrow, and possibly initiated immediately afterward in Paris.

The Cabinet also is to fix the date for Laval's departure for Moscow, but since there are symptoms of better relations between France and Poland, the trip may be postponed three weeks. He was to have left Sunday, with a halt in Warsaw.

However, Laval wants to await the municipal elections, May 12, to conduct his campaign for reelection as Mayor of Aubervilliers, on which his reelection as senator from the Seine Department depends.

He probably will go to Moscow about May 15.

In final conversations at Geneva last night Laval and Maxim Litvinov, Russian foreign commissar, finished the pact, using as basis the "gentlemen's agreement" which Laval and the Russian ambassador, Vladimir Potemkin, concluded at Stresa last week.

Jury Will Visit Lamson Cottage

SAN JOSE, April 18.—UP—Seven men and five women retrying David Lamson for the alleged murder of his wife, will visit the Lamson cottage on the Stanford Campus, Monday.

Superior Judge Robert R. Syer, ruling on a motion by Edwin V. McKenzie, chief of the defense, announced he would permit the visit at 2 P. M. with the jury expected to spend some three hours inspecting the house.

The judge reserved a ruling as to whether the jury would be permitted to examine details of the cottage as McKenzie also requested. He further reserved decision on a request that the jury be delivered along the road where Nick Vojdogich, state witness, testified he saw Lamson sitting with his arms about a blonde woman in a parked car, May 29, 1932.

He probably will go to Moscow about May 15.

TERMINAL RATE FOR RICHMOND IS WITHDRAWN

Effective May 1, the Pacific Coast-European conference will withdraw terminal rates from Richmond. Member steamship lines of the Pacific Coast-European conference operate foreign vessels between Pacific coast ports and United Kingdom and European ports. On August 1, 1932, the member lines of the conference initiated terminal rates from Richmond and have since continuously maintained such rates on a parity with other terminals on the bay.

Under date of March 25, 1935 the following statement was issued by George Yater, secretary of the Pacific Coast-European conference:

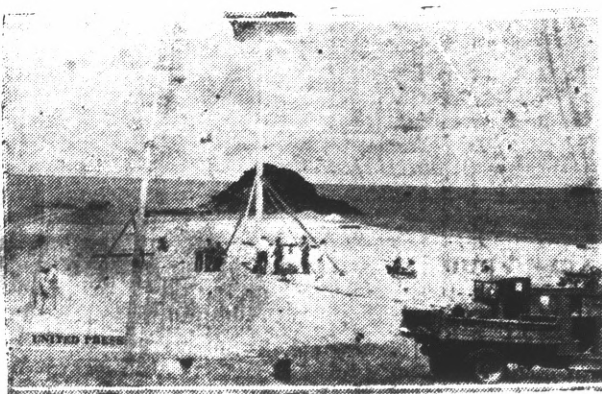

"Effective May 1, the Pacific Coast-European conference will discontinue applying terminal rates to cargo moving through Richmond. The shippers, also 'Pacific Coast Terminal Corporation,' have been advised by us of this action, which is only one of several operating economies we are making in order to try and avoid increased freight rates on dried fruit and canned goods.

We feel that with continued increasing operating costs, and in order to meet our owners' requirements for increased revenue to offset these increased costs, we intend to effect further operating economies similar to this one, that our action does not put the shipper to any more expense, and if we cannot put in these economies, there is nothing left for us to do but increase the rates to offset increased costs."

The withdrawal of terminal rates at Richmond will cause shipper's located here to pay an additional 36 cents per ton to get their cargo to the vessel. Local shippers using this trade such as Fillee & Perrell Canning company, California Spray Chemical company, Richmond Fisheries, Inc., Prune and Apricot Growers association, Sunmald Raisin Growers association who have tonnage destined for European ports, would of necessity divert that tonnage to other ports on San Francisco bay.

Chiselers Scared Off Relief Roles Townsend Act Is Defeated By Congress

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—UP—The "gold fish bowl" test for relief applicants has frustrated more than 1500 would-be chiselers, relief officials announced tonight.

County relief agencies have put investigators on the track of all suspected relief applicants for the past three weeks, with the result that hundreds of applications have been withdrawn voluntarily by relief seekers, and hundreds of others turned down.

Investigation disclosed scores of persons had quit work to join the dole list, officials said. The "gold fish bowl" test includes inquiry into private lives of all applicants for direct relief.

rates from Richmond will have a disastrous effect on the harbor. The chamber of commerce through Thomas M. Carlson, its attorney has filed a complaint and petition before the department of commerce, United States shipping board bureau, Washington, D. C., in which it is asked that the United States shipping bureau disapprove and cancel the agreement made by the Pacific Coast-European conference to discontinue application of terminal rates and service from the port of Richmond, California to ports of the United Kingdom and continental Europe. It is expected that the city council will likewise take such action.

Washington, April 18.—(UPI)—Strongly behind the Administration's social security bill, the House today voted down a number of proposals to liberalize its provisions, including the Townsend old age pension plan.

This was rejected 206 to 56.

Then the Greenway amendment to increase from $15 to $20 a month the Federal contribution to old age pensions was turned down, 165 to 87.

Next the Ludeen bill to grant minimum Federal pensions of $10 a week plus $3 for each dependent, to all unemployed or helpless was defeated, 204 to 52.

The modified Townsend plan was offered by Representative Monahan D. Mont., as a new section of the bill. It called for a 2 per cent tax on all financial transactions, the money taken in to be paid out in the form of pensions of not more than $200 a month to persons over 60 whose income was less than $2400 a year.

HANFORD, April 18.—UP—Officers today hunted a barefoot man clad only in his nightshirt, Primo Alviso, drunken driver suspect, escaped from the county hospital here at daybreak. His companion, Ben Castro, 34, was held in county jail.

MEASURE TO REMAIN IN DEAD FILE

recall in July. Under the constitution, a recall cannot be instituted until the Governor has been in office six months.

Hunt, a former railroad employee introduced a train limit bill also and handled the fight for the Seawell-Powers measure in the Assembly.

But the recall threats met with no favor from Senators Seawell and Powers, who placed the veto measure on the suspended file in the Senate. The Assembly can take no action on the veto until the Senate has acted. Seawell and Powers can now do political maneuvering, if they care to, with the bill. But it appears certain the bill is dead, as it will be impossible to secure a two-thirds vote to override the Governor.

This was the first major veto of the session. Merriam sent a lengthy message to the Senate giving reasons for his action.

The bill would have prohibited railroads from using more than 75 cars on any freight train in California. It made no provision for the number of cars on a passenger train.
